

ADRIANA RAMIREZ

www.adrianaramirez.com +57 3106990267

Under the following premise: "Concepts depend on the circumstances", Adriana Ramirez signals, questions and promotes human relations. Besides being an artist who does things, she considers herself an artist who likes to do things happen.

Adriana is a drawer, in a broad sense of the concept, and what she offers to others are platforms and narratives where the viewers can become actors or even co-authors of the project. The main proposal that connects several lines of her work is conversing based on fundamental and shared concerns or questions, instead of doing it from the way each one responds to them. It includes speaking from the intentions, rather than doing it from the positions, something that multiplies the possibilities of action and interpretation.

Her work wants to equate life itself to sculpture and invite people to be aware of the next four concepts: position, posture, potency, and contingency. The position is the geographical place from where an event or a concept is experienced, posture is the attitude or the paradigm of each person; potency refers to one's features, and it is directly connected with a will, and finally, contingency, that invokes external possibilities, them that make or not things come true.
